AMERICAN SOLDIERS TRAPPED

Twenty Killed in a Sharp Battle.

GENERAL GOMEZ SLAIN

Mexicans Claim to Have Been Victorious.

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—American and Carranza troops fought a bloody battle only a few hours after President Wilson's 6,000-word rebuke to General Carranza had gone forward to Mexico City.

With which side victory rested is not known.

The engagement took place on the Santo Domingo ranch, near the Mexican town of Carrizal, which is nine miles southwest of Villa Ahumada, the Mexican field headquarters in northern Chihuahua.

The number of dead, American or Mexican, was not definitely known here, but nearly a score of General Pershing's command are said to have been killed and the Mexicans are said to have lost more than two score.

Seventeen Americans are declared by Mexican officials to have been captured and to have been hurried to Chihuahua City under adequate guard.

A machine gun used by the Mexicans is reported to have done heavy execution.

General Funston has received no report from General Pershing.

Though he was advised of the engagement through Mexican versions and stories told by Americans returning from the region of the battle he declared he would send no special orders to Pershing until the American field leader had reported.

May Take Swift Action.

This did not mean, however, it was admitted at Funston's headquarters, that swift punitive action was not to be taken.

It was regarded as not improbable that General Pershing already was leading his troops in an action, perhaps defensive, perhaps retaliatory.

American officers at the international bridge received information from Mexican sources that detachments of Mexican cavalry were moving out of Juarez, ostensibly to Pelayo and Guadalupe. Both are border hamlets, Pelayo being about twenty miles west of Juarez and Guadalupe being about the same distance east.

The Americans engaged are thought to have been members of a troop from the Tenth cavalry, a negro regiment, returning from a scouting trip to Guzman. The size of the Mexican force, whose commander, General Felix Gomez, was killed, is not known.

News of the battle was received in Juarez by General Francisco Gonzales, Carranza commander of the military zone of the border.

Mexican Blames Americans.

General Gonzales' first step after confirming the news was to issue a statement placing the blame on the American commander. He charged that the American troops fired first on the Mexicans and that their shots were directed at a courier who had just presented to them a request that they retire.

American army officers declared absolute disbelief in General Gonzales' assertions. The opinion was expressed that if the Americans fired on the Mexicans they did so because it was necessary in order to insure their own safety.

General Trevino's recent warning to General Pershing not to send his troops east, south or west of their positions was recalled.

Excitement spread in El Paso as extras were issued and the news became known. Quiet was maintained, however, in view of General Bell's frequent admonitions that his soldiers could take care of any situation that might arise. While awaiting instructions from headquarters at San Antonio, General Bell kept his entire force in readiness for instant action.

In the meantime, however, word came from Juarez that all was quiet, although the news of the battle was widespread there.

One Version of Trouble.

According to General Gonzales, he was informed by General Gomez at Villa Ahumada of the presence of the Americans westward between Villa Ahumada and El Valle. He says he immediately instructed General Gomez to proceed to the Santo Domingo ranch, where the Americans were reported "in unknown force," and advise their commander to retire to their camp.

ported "in unknown force," and advise their commander to retire to their camp.

This, he says, General Gomez did. The American commander, whose name was not given by General Gomez, is said to have replied that he was instructed to proceed to Villa Ahumada and must do so.

Whichever side began the engagement the Mexicans had the advantage for they had provided themselves with a machine gun, and this is supposed to have done deadly execution in the ranks of the Americans.

That the latter were not inefficient, however, was proved by the number of Mexican dead and wounded removed to Villa Ahumada and witnessed by Americans coming north on a train bound to Juarez.

The battle lasted not more than an hour. It apparently ended by both sides withdrawing. The failure of General Pershing to report on it indicated that the American survivors had not yet returned to their base.

At General Gonzales' headquarters a victory for Mexico was being claimed. The scene in the front room of the comandancia, where the younger officers were gathered, was holiday-like. Several of them, speaking of the battle, said: "We won!"

They remained composed, however, and made little other reference to the incident.

Juarez first learned of the fight in a vague form. The civilian population then began to pack their household goods. Many had already left for interior points in anticipation of the trouble.

GREAT STIR AT CAPITAL

Officials Await Details of Battle.

NEXT STEP UNCERTAIN

Much Depends on Cause of Clash in Mexico.

Washington, June 22.—Reports that American and Carranza troops had clashed aroused gravest apprehension here for future relations between the United States and the Mexican de facto government, already strained almost to the breaking point.

Officials declined to make any prophecy as to the next step of the Washington government, saying that until details of the incident had been cleared up it could not be determined whether a crisis had been precipitated. They made no effort to conceal their anxiety, but were not ready to abandon hope that an official account of what happened at Carrizal would remove the more threatening elements of the situation.

Much depends, it was indicated, whether the clash was the result of General Carranza's determination to enforce his demands for withdrawal of American troops from Mexico or merely a detached incident, arising out of a misunderstanding between commanders.

If it was a deliberate attempt to back up the Carranza adict by force there seems little doubt that President Wilson will accept it as an act of war and make good his word in the latest communication to the de facto government, in which he said that any such attempt would be followed by "the gravest consequences."

Whatever the outcome of the official investigation, however, it was admitted on every hand that the incident in itself presented a grave menace to the continuance of friendly relations and brought the Mexican situation to perhaps the most serious stage it has assumed in the many months of uncertainty.

RED CROSS FIXING FOR WAR ON BORDER

New York, June 22.—Activities of the American Red Cross in preparation for eventualities in Mexico included the placing of physicians and nurses at the disposal of the government, as well as plans to forward supplies and gifts from relatives and friends to soldiers on the border.

More than 600 nurses have been enrolled in this city and are available for immediate service, it was announced by Jefferson R. Kean, director general of the military relief department of the Red Cross. Training classes are being conducted to handle the volunteers the present emergency has brought forward.

The Red Cross has prepared a tentative list of articles that may be sent through its agency to the border and this has been submitted to the war department. The list includes tobacco, games, reading matter and various articles of clothing.

YANKEE SOLDIER WORTH FIVE MEXICANS.

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—While the Carranzistas undoubtedly outnumber the Americans at any given point they are not feared by the Americans, who figure one of their men is worth five Mexicans. This is about the ratio of the troops engaged in the first Mexican war. The Mexicans are not rated as highly now as they were then.

RATIFICATION OF WOODROW WILSON

That Is What St. Louis Convention Amounts To.

NEVER ELEMENT OF DOUBT.

While Democrats Are Full of Confidence, Republicans Figure Hughes Will Unite Vote of G. O. P. and That President Wilson Has Fight of Life on Hands.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

St. Louis, June 19.—[Special.]—A convention which does that for which it was called together ought to be considered a success. Certainly the Democratic national convention ought to be put in that class. Like many another convention called for the purpose of re-nominating a man for president, adopting a platform in accordance with his views and naming a vice president satisfactory to him, the St. Louis convention is a model in every respect. It has been a ratification meeting, and, whatever you may say to the contrary, a gathering of thousands or even dozens of men to endorse something does not make for great interest. As one of the Democrats from Kentucky remarked, "You want a horse race in politics to make things exciting."

An Element of Doubt.

Whenever there is an element of doubt as to what a political convention may do there is always interest, even excitement. Now, while for months it has been believed by judges of the political situation that Hughes would be nominated by the Republican national convention, there has been an element of doubt because of the known opposition of Colonel Roosevelt to the justice. It made no difference that Roosevelt would have been opposed to almost any man who had a chance for the nomination, his opposition manifested to the favorite excited an interest in the Republican convention which has been entirely lacking in the Democratic national gathering. In fact, more interest has been manifested in what Roosevelt will finally do than in the proceedings at St. Louis.

Chances of the Tickets.

The Democrats have no doubt whatever that they will be able to defeat the Republicans this year. That atmosphere is natural in a convention city which has enthusiastically nominated its ticket and adopted a platform which embodied the wishes of the president and endorsed the acts of a Democratic congress, but it is also gathered too early to prognosticate. Remember that the Republicans made quite a step toward getting together, notwithstanding the two conventions which were held in Chicago. Many persons who followed the bull moose four years ago announced their allegiance to the Republican party and expressed a desire for Republican success.

Hughes as a Choice.

One thing which must not be overlooked is that in the election of delegates to the Republican convention the idea prevailed among the Republican electors that Hughes would be acceptable as a compromise man between the old guard, which had opposed him, and Colonel Roosevelt, who was an ultra progressive. They believed that Hughes occupied a middle ground. More than that, it was found that states which were inclined to progressiveness four years ago were generally for Hughes, even when they had candidates as favorite sons.

Times of "Two Spots."

Whenever there is an open convention it is a time of "two spots." Men who have a little following at home, who have no possibility for a presidential nomination, come forth and become candidates for the great office of president. The Democrats had a number of such men at Baltimore four years ago, while the Republicans had a bunch of them at Chicago in 1916, but I am naming no names.

The Everlasting Exception.

Roosevelt is the everlasting exception to all rules. In all his life he has been and will continue to be. He was the big sensation in the Republican convention, because no one knew what he would do finally. He is the big exception in this campaign, for no one knows how far his influence will go in shaping its results.

Oh, So Much Noise!

The practical use of a national convention is to make candidates; the great thing which a national convention does is to make noise. No matter if everything is all fixed up and the nominations made in advance, as at St. Louis, or if the result is in doubt, as at Chicago, the noise is kept up to the end. Always there is a crowd at a convention which sees to it that plenty of noise is made. Who invented the idea that the fellow with the strongest lungs had the best candidate?

Wisconsin Always a Minority.

I do not believe there has been a convention held in many years in which Wisconsin did not figure as a minority sometimes of one man. Wisconsin sends men to Republican conventions who have certain ideas of their own and insist upon airing before a vast multitude.

WALL COVERINGS.

What Kind of New Paper Will You Choose Now?

A WIDE RANGE THIS YEAR.

An Expert Tells How to Treat Walls and Colors So That Rooms Opening Into Each Other Give the Idea of Spaciousness and Harmony.

The day is already dawning when instruction in color values and house decoration will be a part of the course of study in every school. Then, and then only, will all of us be able to choose tasteful furnishings, restful walls and harmonious color schemes. Even if only a few artists be "born" all of us can be taught the principles of art and how to express it in the home.

Let us begin with a study of walls and wall coverings, because they are really the true framework of the room. They form the background for all pictures, ornaments, curtains and hangings. Therefore they must be chosen first if we are to have rooms that are restful and that also express best their relation to the windows and lighting.

We can be thankful that the days have almost gone when decorators offer us papers with climbing vines and interlocked rhubarb plants. Gone, indeed, are most of the medallion wall papers with their huge twelve inch repeating unit. We have today a selection from a wide class of more neutral papers in shades, such as putty, buff, sand, gray, etc., in which the variety is given not by the color, but by the texture, tiny stripe, dot or fleck in the grain of the paper itself.

While these neutral papers are not suitable or necessary in every room, it should be borne in mind—

That light colors make rooms appear larger.

That rooms opening into each other should not be papered with tones in violent contrast, but that similar or harmonious tones are best.

That long, narrow hallways and rooms with northern and eastern exposure are preferably treated with warm, light tones.

That light backgrounds with undecorated pattern make the best surface on which to show off pictures, hangings and other furnishings.

Low ceilings will appear still lower if the wall space is broken by a frieze, plate rail, molding or other horizontal line which divides the space, so that it is best, particularly in our small

WOMAN'S REALM

THE LUM PARK PLEASURE RESORT

Buildings and Improvements to Grounds Close to Completion.
First Dance June 23

TOM MANSURAS, PROPRIETOR

Dancing Pavilion, Bath House, Boat House, Refreshments Stand and Band Stand

Lum park buildings and improvements to the grounds are rapidly nearing completion and on Friday evening, June 23, of this week, the first dance will be given in the big pavilion whose floor surface exceeds that of any hall in the city. Billican's five piece orchestra will play. The Lum park bus will make trips to the park.

Dancing commences at 9 o'clock in the evening and the dances will be 10c each, the orchestra playing what virtually amounts to a double number. Carnations will be given the visitors.

The formal opening of the park has been set for July 4th, at which time Tom Mansuras, the proprietor expects to have the Brainerd City band play, an orchestra for dancing and all the varied amusements in progress as shown in the birdseye view drawn by "Billican." Canan's sketch is better than a photo, as he shows things as they will be when the park resort is operating in every department.

White Brothers drew the plans for the buildings. The pavilion measures 48 by 135 feet. The dancing section gives a floor of maple 48 by 100 feet in size, larger by some feet than Gardner auditorium. The lobby adjoining has a concrete floor. Opening into the lobby is an eight foot wide entrance.

In the lobby will be placed tables and chairs, where refreshments will be served. The height of the interior is 12 feet, the pavilion being surmounted by a heavy truss roof so designed that it eliminates all posts from the floor. On all sides is a four foot space provided with screens for ventilation. The base is of concrete, the walls on the outside are finished with drop siding.

The boat house measures 26 by 48 feet. It is built close to the lake with a platform from which boats can be launched. Four sliding doors open out to the lake. In the interior boats can be placed in racks holding series of three each.

The bath house measures 16 by 60 feet, with 30 booths, and is divided in two sections, the partition wall extending to the roof, half of the bath house being reserved for men, half for women.

The refreshments stand is 24 feet square with a three foot cement walk surrounding it. Shutters are conveniently arranged so that it may be closed completely in case of inclement weather.

The band stand is an open one 20 feet square. Electric lights are being placed in the parks, walks are being built and flower beds laid out, the whole improvements meaning an expenditure of approximately $10,000.

Mr. Mansuras is to be commended for his energy, his public spirit and his faith in Brainerd.

"My Last Convention."

"This is my last convention," is a remark that I heard in both Chicago and St. Louis, sometimes made by men of advanced years, but occasionally by men who have determined that no more will they join in the turmoil and vexations simply to see presidential candidates named.

Lagerquist-McGinn

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lagerquist when their daughter, Olive Gertrude, was given in marriage to Henry G. McGinn of Atkin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Lowrie.

Both the young people are widely known in Brainerd, having lived here all their lives. They have been keeping company with one another for the past seven years, their companionship beginning in the grades of the public schools. For the past five years the bride has been employed as stenographer in the First National bank. The groom after graduating from the high school took up veterinary study and is now practicing his profession in Atkin. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. McGinn of Brainerd.

The house was tastefully decorated for the service. The bridal bower was trimmed with asparagus, daisies and ferns. E. H. Bergh and Mr. Witham played the wedding march. The bride was attired in silk poplin, champagne color, trimmed in gold lace with hat to match. She carried brides roses and lilies of the valley and was attended by her father and preceded by Master Bernard Weber carrying a basket of flowers.

Relatives and immediate members of the family were guests present. Besides relatives the Misses Mabel Fall, Mabel Gustafson, Ellen Rosenbergh and Sigred Carlson were present and served at the lunch which followed the ceremony.

The young couple left on the midnight train last evening for the city. After a short wedding trip they will return to Atkin where they will make their future home.

Lady Maccabees Surprise

The ladies of the Maccabees gave a surprise party at the home of Mrs. Frank Titus, 212 Third avenue, in honor of her sister, Mrs. C. K. Erluse, of Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. E. E. Titus of Nymore. All enjoyed a pleasant time. A dainty luncheon was served.

STATE HIGHWAY PROBLEMS.

All but Ten States Now Have Road Departments.

Arthur Blanchard, professor in charge of the graduate course in highway engineering at Columbia university, New York city, said in part at a recent lecture before the Automobile Club of America:

"There are 2,300,000 miles of public highways outside of municipalities in the United States. There was expended during 1914 for the construction and maintenance of these highways $200,000,000, and, according to a conservative estimate, at least $50,000,000 of this was wasted.

"Of the forty-eight states in the Union, thirty-eight have highway departments. There are over 3,000 counties in the various states, and the county and township highway work is in the hands of over 100,000 highway officials. Each of the 12,000 municipalities in the United States has from one to twenty officials in charge of departments whose work pertains to highways. Fifty per cent of these highway officials do not possess the training and experience necessary to efficiently and economically perform the duties imposed upon them.

"The chaotic conditions and waste of public funds indicated by the above may be attributed primarily to three factors—first, too intimate relationship between politics and highway work; second, lack of active interest on the part of the public; third, the small number of engineers filling public administrative positions which control highway work."

Pittman Fathers War Horse Bill

(By United Press)

Washington, June 22—On the report of army officers that the European war has robbed the United States of most of its suitable cavalry horses, Senator Pittman of Nevada is fathering a bill for government aid in breeding a new supply. Attention was centered on this military weakness of the country when officers were able to buy cavalry remounts for the Mexican campaign only at unusually high prices, and those of inferior quality. Officers reported to Pittman before he introduced his bill that there are only 30,000 cavalry horses in the country suitable for immediate use. Since the European war opened, 1,500,000 American horses and mules have been exported. "Horses for cavalry should be rather small, decidedly hardy and intelligent," said Senator Pittman today. "We have plenty of heavy horses for commercial use, but the auto truck has largely done away with their military value. What is needed is a supply of ponies able to do scout duty. This breed is obtained by the crossing of thoroughbred and western plain stock. The co-operation of breeders of the eastern thoroughbred states with western growers, under the supervision of the federal government, is required. There is no feature of the preparedness program more pressing than the creation of a suitable cavalry horse type." The $200,000 sought by Pittman is under consideration by the appropriations committee.

Thinks Meteor is Message from Son

(By United Press)

Linwood, N. J., June 22—A meteor in the form of a human hand fell from the sky and buried itself in the ground near Henry Pranti's farm-house within 48 hours after the death of his 18-year-old son. Mrs. Pranti today declined to surrender the meteor to any of the several meteorologists who came here after it, saying she believes it is a message from her boy. Mrs. Pranti is superstitious and has talked a great deal with spiritualists since the meteor dropped from the clouds. The object is light in weight and color, has no odor and is unlike meteoric compositions usually found in this part of the world. The resemblance to a human right hand is striking, almost uncanny. The thumb and little finger are unusually long. The nails show distinctly. The first, middle and ring fingers are drawn together and curve slightly inward. The wrist stump is charred, as though it had been burned off. The Prantis will encase the hand in glass and keep it.

Dog Watches Grave For Five Years

(By United Press)

Fultonham, O., June 22—In the cemetery here a homeless cur mourns on the grave of George Cur. They call her the Graveyard Dog. Five years ago the dog came to the cemetery following the funeral procession of Baker, an aged farmer who died at his home near here. Every night the dog keeps a close vigil over the grave. It sleeps for hours at a stretch during the day on the little mound that marks Baker's resting place. Villagers long ago gave up hope of coaxing the dog away from there. She leaves the cemetery only long enough each day to search for food. Friends of Baker say he never owned the dog. Cemetery trustees refuse to drive it away and she seems likely to spend the rest of her life in this strange manner.

Food in Germany Meat on Table A Great Event

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Third Article)

Rotterdam, May 27 (By Mail)—Many families in Germany go meatless for days and weeks at a time. This I have from a neutral business man of Dresden. "It's as bad as housecleaning to get meat. It upsets our whole household economy as well as our financial economy. It's a dreadful operation and we don't go through it oftener than we have to. In the last sixteen days we have had meat twice. Fish, new asparagus, just in the market, potatoes, spinach and dry, crumbling bread made largely of potato flour, make up our list of edibles. We get so tired of it we hate to go to the table. Sometimes we even get so tired of it we decide we'll have meat. Then there's trouble." He was requested to go into the details of a meat purchase in a German town.

"Well, it's like this," he said; lighting a good cigar; (in some mysterious way a huge shipment of Havana cigars direct from Cuba reached Berlin the other day); "When we decide to have meat my wife and I talk it over the night before. If the next day is Tuesday or Friday we can't buy anything but fish, for those are meatless days. My wife calls our maid, and says: 'Elizabeth, we want you to buy a beefsteak for us tomorrow.' Elizabeth frowns and goes out. This means that Elizabeth must get up at four o'clock the next morning and go to the nearest butcher shop and stand in line until her turn comes to buy meat or until the butcher comes to the door and says to the waiting line: 'I'm all sold out of meat.' It is always a four or five hour job for her, unless she wants to get into the queue at 1 o'clock in the morning, as some maids do.

"When my wife and I get up Elizabeth is down at the butcher shop and so I have to make the first while my wife gets breakfast. I go off to the office and Elizabeth comes home at 8 or 9 o'clock, sore on the whole world. Sometimes she has been able to get meat but more often than not she comes back empty handed.

"Officially there are only two meatless days a week but in reality you find the butcher shops meatless day after day. I call up my wife sometime during the morning to find out whether we are going to have meat for supper. If she says we are, I'm happy all day. You'd be surprised to know how much difference a little meat makes."

"How much would Elizabeth pay for a beefsteak?"

"Five marks and a half a pound. How we linger over supper when we have meat! Elizabeth hasn't done any work all day. She has been upset by her morning experience. You read of food riots in Berlin. That was only Elizabeth and her fellow maid fighting to keep their places in the line. But about supper time Elizabeth wakes up, cooks the meat and brings it in with smiles all over her face. She knows she'll get her share. But if we asked her to go out for meat every day, she wouldn't stay with us. That's where the rich folks come in. They can hire maids who have no other work but to go through the meat raid daily.

"There are injustices galore about the food distribution in Berlin. That is why they have had food riots in front of the Reichstag and in front of butcher shops."

(The next article will tell of the injustices in the distribution of food in Germany which give the rich man the best of it.)

BURNQUIST LEADS IN EVERY COUNTY

St. Paul, June 22—Unofficial returns compiled from the primary election of Monday showed that Governor Burnquist, who is making his first campaign for the governorship, is leading his opponent, S. G. Iverson, former state auditor and one of the most widely known politicians in the state, in every county.

Students of political conditions in Minnesota said this is the first time a candidate has carried every county in the state at the primary election.

Totals from 2,269 precincts gave Governor Burnquist 104,317 votes and Mr. Iverson 33,569 out of 3,020 precincts in the state.

Frank B. Kellogg is leading his nearest competitor, A. O. Eberhart, for the United States senate by 18,142 ballots. The results in 2,418 precincts are: Kellogg, 64,974; Eberhart, 46,832; Clapp, 24,931; Lindbergh, 22,711.

Thomas P. Dwyer of Minneapolis continues to lead the field of three candidates seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with a total of 9,658 votes on returns from 1,718 precincts. Cyrus M. King, of Deer River, polled 6,961 votes in these precincts and S. D. Works, insurance commissioner, garnered 6,870.

The fight for the Democratic nomination for United States senator brought out a total vote of 11,675 for Daniel W. Lawler and 6,407 for Alfred J. Davis of Minneapolis in 1,588 precincts outside of Hennepin and Ramsey counties.

Soldiers Go to War On Street Cars

BY HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, June 11 (By Mail)—The day of hiking is gone. Nowadays the soldier goes to battle just as you go to your office, store or mill—in a streetcar or its equivalent, the motorbus. Even so short a time ago as the beginning of the great European war this was not the case. Trains carried most of the troops to within a few miles from the battlefield and from that point on, they marched afoot in the good, old-fashioned way. A few thousand men went into the battle of the Marne in taxicabs, from Paris. This, too, probably never will happen again. Now motorbuses are operating like street cars all along the front. The only difference is, there are more motorbuses in the fighting zone than there are on the most frequent run in New York, Chicago or any other large American city. They form almost endless processions. Down the long stretches of fine French roads one sees busses, busses and nothing but busses. It is a great thing for the soldier. He ends a period of repose in an encampment back of the line some place steps out the door of his billet and boards a "street car." Pack on his back, gun between his knees, he and his thousands of bunkies sit in easy riding motorbuses and return to work. By taking advantage of the darkness and the many good roads, new and old, he rides almost up to the very trench he is to occupy. Then he gets out. The troops he replaces, troops who have been on the job for several days and are now ready for a rest, come out of the trenches, sit down in the motorbuses and ride a few miles back into the country.

It is just like the shift hour in a big factory. The new hands fall off the street cars and go to work; the off-shift pour out of the factory and onto the street cars for a ride home and rest. It is rare to see soldiers nowadays worn out by long marches. Infantry on the hike is a comparatively unknown thing. Near Verdun I saw several detachments of men standing in line by the roadside. It was so unusual I asked questions. Why? "Wait a minute," said a staff captain, "wait until we get round the bend in the road." When we got around the bend in the road there were the waiting busses. The men had simply gotten out to stretch their legs. They take good care of the fighting men in General Joffre's armies. Formerly the infantry marched along dusty roads, their officers riding at their sides on horseback. Today the men streetcar to war, their commanders riding amongst them in touring cars. The defense of Verdun was planned and executed on the supposition that no railroads were available. Every move was by motor. The artillery, big guns and little, which used to be drawn slowly into action behind weary horses, now dash up to their positions mounted bodily on rapid motor trucks. It is quite a common sight to see several batteries of 75's, calissons and guns both, loaded upon high-horse-powered trucks, sailing down the road like a streak.

Motorbuses and trucks are practically standardized now. The same motor hauls guns, shells, soldiers, cartridges, grenades, food. That is, they can haul them if necessary. Of course for the sake of order, there are motor trains for every purpose and ordinarily they work to that purpose. Still, if reinforcements are needed, an ammunition train, under the present arrangement, can be almost instantly converted into a troop train. And vice versa. The battle of Verdun was almost a battle of motorbuses. The success of the French in staving off the German drive was a success of the up-to-date system of street-carrying to war.

CAST THEIR VOTES BY MAIL

North Dakotans at Washington Drop Ballots in Letter Box.

Washington, June 22—In the first instance of its kind Congressmen Henry T. Helgeson of Milton, George M. Young of Valley City and Patrick D. Norton of Hettinger, N. D., cast their ballots in the state primary campaign that was being waged 2,000 miles distant in their home state, without leaving their offices at Washington. The ballots, which were sent by county auditors, were filed in and mailed to North Dakota with the seal of a notary public. More than twenty civil service employees at Washington who claim North Dakota as their residence voted likewise. Congressman Young said North Dakota is the first state to pass legislation permitting legal residents to vote by mail. The election is to be held June 28.

Get 15 Million Increased Wages

Cleveland, June 22—Wage increases affecting 100,000 workers here and totalling $15,000,000 annually have been or will be granted before July 1, according to figures compiled by John Owens, Cleveland federation of labor secretary. Owens estimates that half the men and women working here, numbering 200,000, will benefit in wage boosts, at an average of not less than fifty cents a day each. Common labor, which has advanced from $2 to $2.50 is scarce at the latter figure. A quarry strike at a nearby town affected 500 men who asked that their pay be raised to $2.50. Before the quarry could settle it, Clevelanders had hired all the strikers at their own prices. Many thousands of workers here already have been granted more pay, including 10,000 steel workers. Agreements have been signed affecting over 20,000 other employees and granting wage boosts of from twenty cents to $1.20 per day per man. Machinists and building laborers numbering 16,000 have made demands or plan to make them for increases ranging from thirty to fifty cents a day. In practically every industry in the Cleveland district, workers have begun to share or intend to share in the prosperity of the mills and factories.

Honor Roll of the Boys First to Enlist
 * John J. Brady
 * Edward P. McCabe
 * Werner Hemstead, Jr.

The first man from Brainerd to the colors was John J. Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy H. Brady. Young Brady is in the J. M. Elder land office and will make a good soldier as he is a good marksman. He left Brainerd early Wednesday and said he was to return Thursday midnight if he was not accepted in the company. His sister, pretty Miss Margaret, says she will join the Red Cross. John Brady made a trip to St. Paul to enlist when there was trouble in Mexico some years ago, being the first man to go from Brainerd at that time.

Edward P. McCabe, age 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick E. McCabe, went to Duluth this morning to join his old regiment, Co. C, Third regiment, M. N. G. He enrolled Sept. 15, 1912 and served three years and has an honorable discharge. Upon leaving Duluth he expressed his willingness to serve when called. He has a marksman medal. The Duluth troops will probably leave Duluth for Fort Snelling in Thursday evening under command of Capt. Walter O. Flodin.

Werner Hemstead, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Werner Hemstead, went to St. Paul yesterday morning. He had enrolled there at the time of attending the University of Minnesota, and responded to the call to join the guard.

At the Best

"Don Quixote," the Fine Arts-Triangle play, is a picture of life in the sixteenth century in Spain. Don Quixote (De Wolf Hopper) has become crazed on the subject of knight-errantry. He dons armor and rides away with a servant, Sancho Panza (Max Davidson) in search of adventures. At an inn, the knight meets Dulcinea (Fay Tincher), a servant girl, and picks her as the lady for whom he will fight. A muleteer is jealous of Don Quixote's attentions to the girl but is thrown downstairs when he interferes. Don Quixote sees some windmills and takes them for giants. He attacks them with his lance and is overthrown. He attacks a body of guards and convicts loaded with chains who are being driven to a galley ship. Cardino (George Walsh), who is one of the convicts, excites the pity of the Don. He rescues the sweetheart of Cardino, just as she is being compelled to marry Don Fernando (Chester Withey). The Don also rescues Dorothea (Julia Faye) who has been deceived by Don Fernando and has run away from home. There is some severe fighting between a band of cavaliers led by Don Fernando and Don Quixote and his followers. Fernando is wounded and is taken to the inn at the appeal of Dorothea. Quixote is shot and afterwards carried to the inn, where he is placed in the basement stable. Amid the loving of Sancho and Dulcinea, the lovable old knight expires.

DEBS OPPOSES PREPAREDNESS

Socialist Leader Flays the War Spirit and Says War is Murder in Uniform, Spoke Last Night

HE ARRAIGNS CAPITALISM

European War Resulted from Forty Years of Preparedness, Said Debs at Gardner Hall

While war has all but been declared in Mexico, American citizens have been shot down, women outraged and American troops ambushed, Eugene Debs, socialist, spoke at Gardner hall Wednesday evening, and flayed the war spirit and said the socialists were opposed to preparedness that they believed in educating the working classes, in shedding light instead of blood.

As a recruiting agent for Uncle Sam's regular army or the Minnesota national guard, Mr. Debs would make but a poor stick, and for the very flag which permitted him to speak out in a hall in Brainerd and his opinions undisturbed he had but sneering allusions.

The audience listened to Debs on how to save the country while the war in Mexico is under way.

"Why when the capitalists shake a flag they expect you to kill some one," said Debs.

"With the country saved, how much of it belongs to you workers? The ruling class has all to gain and nothing to lose. War is murder in uniform. The European war is the result of 40 years of preparedness," said Debs.

All war was charged up to capitalism, in Debs' arraignment.

"On no battlefields do you see the socialist flag," said Debs.

The general trend of Debs' harangue was to the effect that a worker was a fool to fight for his country.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

Today a summer resorter drove his car down from Hubert and there being no boards up on Sixth street, he followed on over the torn up section where steam roller, teams, etc., had done their best to rip up old paving.

There was a streak of blue followed in the wake of the car as the driver pushed his car through mud, holes, washouts, etc., etc. Eventually he got through, fighting mad at what he termed the worst piece of road he had ever run through. He was somewhat mollified when bystanders told him he should have kept off a street under repair.

It is a pleasure to watch Pete Nordstrom run the big steam roller on South Sixth street. He makes it do everything except talk.

BIG BALL GAME WITH HIBBING

Greatest Bunch of Talent Ever Faced by the Brainerd Team on Diamond Next Sunday

COOK IS SCOUTING FOR HELP

E-Leaguers in Plenty in the Mesaba Range Town Lineup Will Make Game a Thriller

Brainerd next Sunday will face one of the best playing teams in Minnesota, the Hibbing team which is recruited from the big leagues. Hibbing supports a ball team in better style than many an American association.

There is Joe Fautsch, shortstop, who now belongs to Comisky, Chicago Americans, still signed with him, farmed out to Virginia, but who would rather play with Hibbing than eat.

Newt Randall played with Duluth and is also a high priced player. He is from Milwaukee, Wis., and was in the American association team there. Jerry Edmunds is catcher. Withers of Des Moines, Iowa, is a player of the Western League. Bert and Dwight Carroll, brothers, have been ball players for years.

Bobby Gelselmann and Burrows are home players of Hibbing. Williams led the Northern League in hitting. Brookings may also come.

It's no wonder "Spay" Cook has gone to Minneapolis to scout around for some timber to brace up Brainerd for the Hibbing attack. It will be some game, a great exhibition of the national pastime.

WHY SHOES COST MORE

Government Statistics in Regard to People and Cattle in This Country is Interesting

New conditions, world wide in their scope, have so radically changed the supply of the basic raw material used in the production of shoes that old land marks are swept away and new systems of reckoning have become necessary.

Government statistics demonstrate that the numbers of cattle and people in this country are moving in inverse ratio. To illustrate this the shoe retailer has prepared the comparative figures below, showing the decrease of cattle as compared with the increase of population:

1907—Beef cattle, 51,565,731; population, 87,320,539.
 1909—Beef cattle, 49,379,000; population, 90,556,521.
 1911—Beef cattle, 39,679,000; population, 93,792,509.
 1913—Beef cattle, 36,030,000; population, 97,026,000.
 1916—Beef cattle, 39,453,000; population, 103,000,000.

Traffic in Northwestern Montana Practically at Standstill.

Great Falls, Mont., June 22—Traffic on the Great Northern railroad in Northwestern Montana is almost at a standstill as a result of floods following heavy rains and extensive melting of snow in the hills.

The main line of the railroad was cut by a washout near Eureka. While efforts were being made to effect repairs other washouts occurred further west and on the Fernie branch. Along the Kootenai river the road is submerged for several miles, some places to a depth of three feet.

NOGALES DEMANDS ADDITIONAL TROOPS

Nogales, Ariz., June 22.—Alarmed by persistent reports of large bodies of armed Mexican troops near here and other large bodies mobilizing at Magdalena the mayor and the Nogales board of trade sent telegrams to General Funston and Secretary of State Lansing, and, finally, when no answers had been received, to President Wilson, demanding the immediate dispatch of more troops to this vicinity. A meeting was called for the organization of a citizens' guard and patrol.

A delegation of citizens also visited the local daily newspaper and requested that war bulletins be taken from the windows because of the fear of their inflammatory effect.

The population of Nogales, Ariz., is 66 per cent Mexican.

"Call Mr. Daniels,"

A sense of something big impending stirred the spectators and the jury alike, and the Judge himself, keenly alive to that new note in Langdon's voice, turned deliberately in his chair as Daniels began his testimony.

Everyone in the room leaned forward, tense with excitement.

"Mr. Daniels," began Langdon with no preliminaries, "on the night of the banquet you walked with Miss Page past the door of the gray suite, did you not?"

"Yes. But I—I—don't remember what happened."

"I did."

"Did you know that Mr. Pollock was in there?"

"No. But as I passed I heard his voice."

"Could you hear what he said?"

"Yes."

"What was it?"

Langdon was firing his questions like shells from a gun.

"He said, 'Let's understand each other once and for all on this thing. I've got you, and got you good. I can send you up tomorrow if I want to. You've no more chance than a snowball in hell.'"

"Did anyone answer him?"

"Yes. A man said, 'You'll make that threat once too often, James Pollock. I'll make you eat your words at the point of a gun some day.'"

"Then I heard James laugh contemptuously and I had to walk on towards the banquet."

"Did you know whom that other voice belonged to?"

"I thought I did. That's why I left the banquet-room and came back to listen at the door. I was startled when I heard Miss Page's voice instead of the one I expected."

"Whose voice did you think it was?"

"That of a man named Shale. 'Jim's jackal,' we used to call him."

"Mr. Daniels, do you know of any reason why Mr. Pollock should threaten to send this man Shale 'up'?"

"Well, Pollock told me once that he had 'got the goods' on Shale for some shady work that would easily send him to prison, and that he kept him out of jail because he was useful."

"Mr. Daniels, have you seen Mr. Shale since the death of Mr. Pollock?"

"Yes, I have."

"When?"

"The—the day before I came back home. I ran into him on the street."

We had a talk, and he told me that—he thought he could get me fresh backing for The Covington."

"Did he see you again?"

"Yes. A few days ago he came to me and told me that a syndicate had been formed and had raised the money to put on a musical comedy, and that I was to be manager of the theater and look after the financial interests of the syndicate. He was very nice to me."

FIERCE CLASHES ARE OCCURRING

Germans and Russians Heavily Engaged.

FIGHT AT CLOSE QUARTERS

Muscovites Continue to Drive the Austrians West and Southwest in Bukovina—French Repulse All Attacks in the Region of Verdun.

London, June 22.—Fierce fighting, with the Germans generally the aggressors, is in progress between the Russians and Germans in Volhynia, along the Stokhod and Styk rivers and in the region lying between Lutsk and Vladimir-Volynski.

The Russians, who had crossed the Styk and reached the village of Gruziatyn, west of Kolki, entered the town and captured 11 officers, 400 men and 6 machine guns.

In the fighting the town changed hands several times, but under a concentrated German artillery fire the Russians finally were driven back, with the loss of 1,000 men made prisoners, Berlin reports.

Along the Stokhod, near the village of Rajniest, the Germans delivered a heavy attack, which resolved itself later into hand to hand fighting, in which the Russians, according to Petrograd, forced the Germans to flee.

Near Kiselin another heavy onslaught was stopped by the Russians and the Germans put to flight. Near Lokstchi, Vienna reports the capture of 1,300 Russians.

North, west and northwest of Lutsk vicious encounters are ensuing. Across the frontier in Galicia the stalemate in the region of Buczacz persists.

In Bukovina the Russians continue to drive the Austrians west and southwest.

Petrograd announces that the prisoners taken by the Russians in Volhynia and Galicia up to June 15 aggregated 172,484.

The Germans assert success for their arms on the northern part of the Russian front in the Dvinsk, Smorgon and Dubatowka sectors, with the infliction of heavy losses on the Russians in the latter region.

On both sides of the Meuse, in the region of Verdun, Germans again launched strong attacks against the French positions, but were everywhere repulsed.

World's Highest Auto Road.

The world's highest automobile road and one of the most remarkable pieces of road building on record has just been completed in Colorado. The new highway runs to the very top of Pikes peak, whose crest is more than 14,000 feet high.

The man who discovered Pikes peak said that it would never be climbed. Today the topmost point is accessible for seven passenger touring cars. The new road is eighteen miles long, and in that distance it rises 8,000 feet. The engineering is so skillfully done that the average grade is only 6 per cent—a rise of six feet in every 100—and the maximum grade does not exceed 10 per cent. The road is never less than twenty feet wide, and around some of the sharper curves is as much as fifty feet. Guard rails at the more dangerous edges reassure the nervous driver.

There is a system of auto supply stations and water stations along the whole road, which is also followed by a telephone line.

To blast out the new highway, running for much of its length through almost solid rock, fifteen carloads of dynamite were necessary. So carefully was the work carried on that not a single laborer was injured in the blasting.

STRENGTH OF THE TICKETS

Both Parties Pleased With Nominees of the Conventions.

WILSON RULED AT ST. LOUIS

His Desires Fully Met in the Making of the Platform—Few Sore Spots Left as an Aftermath of Either of the Gatherings—Democrats Expected Republicans to Name Roosevelt.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 22.—[Special.]—Although senators and members of congress have returned to their congressional duties, the talk is still about the recent conventions, and speculations continue as to the political strength of the two different tickets nominated at Chicago and St. Louis.

Of course it was known that the Democrats would nominate the old ticket, and it is generally acknowledged among members of that party that they expected Roosevelt to be the nominee of the Republicans. That such was expected might be indicated from a careful reading of the speech of Governor Glynn as temporary chairman. It was evident that this speech, prepared something like ten days in advance, had in mind a Republican candidate of a militant type. The remarks fit Roosevelt very close.

Wise Nominations.

Four years ago the impartial observer said that the Democrats at Baltimore made the wisest choice in naming Governor Wilson. Those same observers would say now that the Republicans made the wisest nomination at Chicago.

With all due deference to all the other candidates, with acknowledgment of the high standing and personal integrity of every man who was placed before the Chicago convention, it must be said by those who know that the convention made a selection which was more acceptable to the people and to the majority of delegates than would have been that of any other man.

One Man Domination.

Of course there was talk about one man domination at the St. Louis convention. But what of it? What else could be expected when the president was to be renominated and the campaign made upon his policies? Of course he wanted the proceedings shaped to suit his ideas.

It is not the first time that one man has dominated national conventions. Bryan has dominated two Democratic conventions, and Roosevelt has dominated two. Both of these men were as powerful in the conventions they controlled as Wilson was in the recent convention at St. Louis. The convention at St. Louis had but one idea, and that was to do what President Wilson wanted. It may sound like machine methods, but conventions are frequently run by machinery, and in most cases everything is well greased so as to cause the least friction.

Rows Make News.

The 500 newspaper men who went to St. Louis feel that they were bunked to some extent. They had so little to do and found so little to write about that they might just as well have remained at home. Rows make news. Disturbances, the unexpected, disagreements, midnight conferences, combinations to beat some one or to nominate some one—that is what makes conventions great things in a newspaper sense. "Cut and dried," they all said many times. Why, of course! No one really expected anything more. Those newspaper men were looking for the unexpected and were disappointed.

Some Sore Spots.

Now, here is a queer thing: There were really more sore spots after the St. Louis convention among the delegates than after the Chicago convention among the delegates. Perhaps half a hundred very disappointed men who supported Roosevelt left the convention hall in Chicago, but they expected defeat. At no time did any real live man who was supporting Roosevelt expect that he would be nominated in the Republican convention.

Now as to the sore spots as the outgrowth of the Democratic convention. They resulted from little things. Men did not get the recognition they wanted; they felt that they had lost their individuality as representatives of the people and were simply meeting to obey the mandate of one master mind. And yet those men went there knowing that would happen.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.
